INTRODUCTION

Food security, safety, quality, nutrition and health are some food factors wherein their issues and challenges are faced by almost all countries in the world in recent years. Those are considered as critical factors to improve humanis welfare including health promotion and disease prevention to improve the life expectancy, health and quality of life.

The mission to realize those food factors for the world population especially in the developing countries including Indonesia requires a comprehensive, cross-sector, decisive approach and strategy, among others is quality and safety of food have to be ensured throughout the food production, processing, storage and distribution chain.

In order to disseminate research results and gain insights from all stakeholders on important food factors which will influence people's welfare in the future, Indonesian Association of Food Technologists (IAFT/PATPI) in collaboration with Department of Food Science and Technology (DFST), and Southeast Asian Food and Agricultural Science and Technology (SEAFST) Center IPB organize two days seminar (3-4 October 2012) entitled FUTURE OF FOOD FACTORS.
